

As a child Liz Tregenza lived near the Yarraman Creek in NW NSW. Her family farms throughout the Northern Basin. She learnt to recite in primary school “Yarraman Creek flows into the Mooki, the Mooki flows into the Namoi, the Namoi flows into the Darling, the Darling flows into the Murray and the Murray flows into the sea at Lake Alexandrina.” Sadly this is no longer the case. Liz now lives on the Finniss River in South Australia, in sight of the sandhills at the Murray Mouth. She was the secretary of the River Lakes and Coorong Action Group from 2009 to 2019. Liz has a keen understanding of the importance of a healthy river system to the whole Basin community.
